ABSTRACT

A system and method for describing network components and their associations is provided. The network management layer receives descriptions of network components and places at least a portion of the received description into one of a plurality of sections of an electronic list of network components. Each of the plurality of sections has a standard format.